

BREAD MERGER PROBE ORDERED BY COMMISSION

Announcement Follows Charges by Senator King That Commission Should Be Abolished.

ALUMINUM FIRM AGAIN ATTACKED

Ward Wires La Follette Defying Senate to Prove That Food Merger Is Unlawful.

BY ROBERT D. LUSK.
Washington, February 4.—Apparently spurred by increasing senatorial condemnation of its inactivity, the federal trade commission, on its own motion, has announced that it will investigate the $200,000,000 Ward baking merger.

A special investigator will examine the giant consolidation of bread interests to determine whether it infringes on anti-trust laws. The inquiry will be separate from that which the commission has been conducting into general "bread trust" charges.

Senator King, Utah, democrat, had charged Thursday that the commission had ceased to function and should be abolished. King's remarks upon the senate floor were prompted by the introduction late Wednesday by Senator La Follette of a resolution calling for a senatorial inquiry of the Ward combine and the more recent $200,000,000 National Food Products merger.

Discontent Apparent.

Further evidence of the discontent of senators with the action of the commission came Thursday when the senate judiciary committee voted to delve deeper into the alleged trust activities of the aluminum company of America, controlled by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his family.

The committee agreed to report to the senate a resolution demanding that the commission turn over to the committee all evidence in its possession relating to the Mellon corporation. This evidence is that upon which the commission based its decision that the aluminum company was violating the Clayton act. Prosecution of this charge will begin February 15 in Pittsburgh and may interfere with the senatorial request.

William B. Ward, manipulator of the huge bread merger, wired La Follette Thursday, welcoming a senatorial investigation of his corporation and defying the upper house to prove that it violated anti-trust laws.

King Warns Country.

King, in his speech, warned the country against what he termed a general movement to concentrate the wealth of the nation in the hands of a few. He condemned both the bread and food combinations as well as such stock-selling plans that divided common stock into two classes, one voting shares, the other non-voting.

"The most important question today," King said, "is this megamillionaire of giantism. All these big mergers are merely an indication of the movement in industry and economic affairs to concentrate the supply of all commodities in a few organizations.

"There will be a manipulation of stock like the recent Dodge brothers' affair when Dillon, Read and company are being fooled. The controlling and voting stock will be retained by men who run the corporations and by skillful advertising and adroit propagandizing, the rest will be unloaded on the people."

Negro Messiah And His Pupil Ordered to Die

25 Others Are Imprisoned For Deaths in Baptismal Ceremonies.

Broken Hill, Northern Rhodesia, South Africa, February 4.—A negro messiah and one of his disciples have been sentenced to death and 25 others to lashings and imprisonment for the baptismal drowning of 22 converts to their Watchtower sect.

Trial of the so-called "Black Christ," Nwanalea, his principal assistant, Chief Shaiwila, and the others ended Thursday. The negroes were charged with baptizing hundreds of converts by a ceremony of total immersion which sometimes continued for more than a minute. The 22 natives named in the complaint were drowned, and probably many more.

The trial judge warned the native spectators before passing sentence that disorder would be dealt with vigorously. The occasion passed off without trouble. Any strong native chief would have killed Nwanalea had the latter opened up his salvation shop in his territory, the judge said, in announcing the sentences.

Episcopal Society Report On Dry Law Draws Hot Replies

ASKS $250,000,000 FOR NAVY AVIATION IN NEXT FIVE YEARS

Service Would Have 1,248 Planes Ready for Immediate Use of Navy at End of Period.

$339,581,000 IS VOTED TO MAINTAIN ARMY

Budget Estimate Exceeded More Than Million By Military Committee of House.

Washington, February 4.—(AP)—Expenditure of approximately $250,000,000 over a five-year period to build up naval aviation was recommended today to the house naval committee by the bureau of aeronautics.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, bureau chief, told the committee the proposal contemplated a thorough development program, which included all activities of the air service.

The money would be expended as follows:

Procurement of new planes and equipment, $133,000,000.

Maintenance of the air organization, $70,000,000.

Construction of a new 23,000-ton airplane carrier of the Saratoga and Lexington type, $50,000,000.

Would Have 1,248 Planes.

At the end of five years the service would have 1,248 planes ready for immediate service he said.

Admiral Moffett said the proposed amount did not include the pay or maintenance of the air service, as this always had been cared for under general navy expenditures.

"This is a very big program," Mr. Butler, member of the committee, remarked.

"It's small by the side of what the army wants," Representative Vinson, of Georgia, ranking democrat, interjected.

"It's not so very large and it's comprehensive," Admiral Moffett answered. "We have been accused of being asleep at the switch, and we want to show that we are not—either as to the present or future needs of the service."

$339,581,000 PROVIDED FOR ARMY MAINTENANCE.

Washington, February 4.—(AP)—Maintenance of the army and the various reserve organizations at their present strength for the next fiscal year was provided in the annual war department appropriation bill reported today to the house.

Carrying a total of $339,581,000, the measure would authorize an increase in expenditures of $9,965,000 over funds now available. This was an increase of $1,087,000 above budget estimates, and was the first time in a few organizations.

"There will be a manipulation of stock like the recent Dodge brothers' affair when Dillon, Read and company are being fooled. The controlling and voting stock will be retained by men who run the corporations and by skillful advertising and adroit propagandizing, the rest will be unloaded on the people."

SEMINARY PLANT WORK BEGINS SOON

Architects Chosen and Plans Laid for Immediate Construction of First College Unit.

Edwards & Sayward, prominent architects of Atlanta, were chosen and the building program of Columbia Theological seminary outlined at a meeting of the building committee of the seminary here Thursday. The architects will begin work immediately to plan the buildings, and construction will get under way as soon as plans can be provided, it was announced.

Removal of Columbia seminary to Atlanta brings to the city one of the oldest and best-known theological seminaries in the south. The seminary trains ministers for the Presbyterian church in the south. Atlanta was chosen as the future location of the seminary because of its strategic location, its supremacy as a center of southern life and activity, and because it is the largest and strongest Presbyterian center within the borders of the southern church.

The new location of the seminary is a beautiful site of approximately 60 acres in the southeastern section of Decatur and is considered by educational experts an ideal location. The ultimate program, when completed, will represent an investment of $1,000,000. The first unit, which will

Secretary of New York Episcopal Diocese Denies Empringham Spoke for Entire Church.

DECLARES SOCIETY DEFUNCT SINCE 1918

Anti-Alcohol and Anti-Saloon Leagues Also Challenge Authority of Speaker on Prohibition.

New York, February 4.—(AP)—From three sources attacks were made today on the report of the Rev. James Empringham, national secretary of the Episcopal Church, stating that prohibition has failed and the society will work for the return of light wines and beer.

Speaking for the social service commission of the diocese of New York, the Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, secretary, said Dr. Empringham did not speak for the Episcopal church, and that the church temperance society has been practically defunct since 1918.

The other attacks came from the World League Against Alcoholism and the Anti-Saloon League of America, both of which took issue with Dr. Empringham's contention that prohibition is a failure. The latter organization, through S. E. Nicholson, secretary, also denied statements attributed to officials of the society that the Anti-Saloon league falsified the prohibition situation in its propaganda.

Has No Right To Speak.

Dr. Gilbert, whose organization is the official board of the Episcopal church in the diocese of New York for dealing with social questions, said:

"Dr. Empringham has no right whatever to speak for the Episcopal church on any subject. Nor does his views even represent the churchmen's association, before which he made his irresponsible declarations with regard to the Episcopal church and the question of prohibition.

"Furthermore, it is my understanding that the Church Temperance society, of which Dr. Empringham is nominally the secretary, has been practically defunct since 1918. Differences arose at that time which resulted in the resignation of many members of its governing board, and the resources of the society have since been so depleted that little active work has been maintained. It is not clear to me on what grounds he speaks even for the Church Temperance society."

Attacks Questionnaire.

"It is difficult to believe that this society now has 20,000 members, or that it ever had that many. And if a questionnaire were sent to that number of people, it would be important to know just how many replies were received," this Dr. Empringham fails to state.

"Reference is made to action by social commission. As executive secretary of that commission in the diocese of New York, I can state that the matter has never come before it to state."

Bootleg Kings Anxious to Pay Income Taxes

Convicted Chicago Brewers Admit They Made $1,500,000 Illegally.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Chicago, February 4.—Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, de luxe bootleggers, have admitted to revenue agents that they cleared, net $1,500,000, or nearly that, while brewing stuff for the bootleg market and are prepared to pay income taxes on that amount.

The internal revenue bureau had billed them for taxes on a net income of $3,000,000 for the two years of their greatest activity as brewers. Through their attorneys they persuaded the tax collectors they actually earned less than their books show. Druggan is quoted as saying he wants to square up with the government and engage in respectable real estate business in Chicago and Florida.

Railroad records and customers' receipts collected by the government men in a six months' search formed the basis of the tax claims against the pair of brewers. It is said the records also showed that three Chicago politicians were getting a split in the illegal profits. This split may account for the shrinkage from $3,000,000 to half that sum. Druggan and Lake also spent enormous sums while they were in jail, bribing various officials to permit them amazing provisions.

MRS. FARMER SAYS SHE KILLED RIVAL IN DEFENDING SELF

ACCUSED OF SPYING, SHE DREW PISTOL

Had Horse Whip in Automobile With Which She Planned To Chase Her Husband.

Memphis, Tenn., February 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Josephine Eva Farmer, 42, admitted on the witness stand in criminal court here today that she shot Mrs. Mary Lee Scott, 29, divorcee, with whom James F. Farmer, her husband, has admitted he was infatuated, and declared the shooting was in self-defense.

Mrs. Farmer is on trial on a charge of murder.

"She said to me, 'you spying—you won't spy on us any more,'" Mrs. Farmer testified.

"The room was dark. She reached toward the table and—and I fired."

"That's all," Mrs. Farmer said, "I don't remember. I don't know what I did. I fired—that's all."

Read of Slaying.

"I didn't know she was killed until I read it hours later in a newspaper."

Mrs. Farmer said she saw Mrs. Scott enter her apartment, where the shooting occurred, and saw Farmer driving an automobile into a driveway. She said she followed Mrs. Scott, but without any intention of harming her.

"At first I saw no one," Mrs. Farmer testified, "then I saw Mrs. Scott by a table to the left of the doorway. She had something in her hand."

Then, Mrs. Farmer continued, Mrs. Scott reached toward a table and accused her of spying. The shooting followed.

Gun for Protection.

Mrs. Farmer said she carried the pistol for "protection," that she also had a horse whip but had left it in her automobile. The whip, she explained, was to horse-whip her employees to participate in the welcome.

The accused woman said Mrs. Antoinette Rush, who quoted her as

KING OF RUMANIA BROKEN BY GOSSIP INVOLVING WIFE

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Vienna, February 4.—King Ferdinand of Rumania is a broken man. He has aged ten years in the last six weeks.

The alleged scandal between Queen Marie and Prince Babu Stirbey has made him the laughing stock with Crown Prince Carol, dictated by the triumvirate which rules Rumania—Queen Marie, Prince Babu Stirbey and Premier Bratianu—comes as the most bitter disappointment of his life.

The quarrel between Prince Carol and his royal mother, which was the direct outgrowth of her friendship with Prince Babu Stirbey and Prince Carol's refusal to accept the policies of Premier Bratianu, had much more to do with Carol's renunciation of the throne than his own love affairs.

Ordinance Committee to Air Proposed Ban on Negro Shops Next Thursday.

WHITE BARBERS ISSUE STATEMENT

Viva Voce Vote to Reconsider Measure Almost Unanimous at Adjourned Session Thursday.

City council voted unanimously Thursday to reconsider the ordinance preventing negro barbers from serving white patrons. This action was taken at an adjourned session of council after lengthy discussion. It was decided by a viva voce vote to refer the bill to the ordinance committee, of which Councilman Horace Russell is chairman, for a public hearing. Mr. Russell set the hearing for next Thursday.

Vote to reconsider the measure was taken immediately after council was called to order at the adjourned session, called by Alderman Claude Buchanan, mayor pro tem. Councilman John White, of the fourth ward, moved to reconsider the bill, and Councilman Guy Dobbs seconded the motion.

Councilman White had issued a statement before the meeting that he would urge reconsideration of the paper, which was passed at the last session of council, and which had brought forth protests from civic, commercial and religious organizations and many individuals.

Following introduction of the motion to reconsider, a statement was introduced by Councilman Harry York from John W. Swann, president of the Atlanta local of the barbers' union. It stated that the barber organization had sponsored the measure.

Statements were also read from the City club and the committee on church cooperation opposing the measure.

Councilman D. W. Adams, of the 12th ward, in discussing the question of reconsideration, declared that he introduced the ordinance in council in good faith.

"I believe it was passed by council in good faith also," he said. "I believed it was for the best interests of the city at large as well as for negro."

300,000 WELCOME SPANISH AVIATORS AT RIO DE JANEIRO

Daring Flier Varies But 14 Minutes From 12-Hour Schedule on 1,264 Miles From Pernambuco

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, February 4. Commander Ramon Franco, aboard the Spanish hydroplane Ne Plus Ultra, arrived here at 5:29 p. m. Thursday after a thrilling flight down the Brazilian coast from Pernambuco. Franco covered the 1,264 miles in 12 hours and 14 minutes, just 14 minutes off the 12-hour schedule which the flier had set for himself and his craft. He flew at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour.

At 5:05 p. m. the Ne Plus Ultra was sighted flying toward the city. Twenty-four minutes later the plane came to rest on harbor water.

No other person ever received such a welcome from Rio de Janeiro as was accorded Franco. The quays and the Avenida Rio Branco were packed with 300,000 enthusiastic people, eager for a sight of the plane or its hero.

Vehicular traffic in the principal sections of the city were suspended for more than three hours to permit the crowds to watch the arrival from the streets.

Almost at the moment the Ne Plus Ultra was sighted, the news spread throughout the city. Commercial houses closed their doors to permit employees to participate in the welcome.

Church bells, sirens, train whistles and the noise-making appliances of vessels in the harbor blared a mechanical welcome that had scarcely more volume than the shouts of "Viva Franco!" sent up by the joy-crazed spectators as the plane flew over the city for a few minutes before settling to the water.

Franco and his aides disembarked from a launch at the quay, where they were greeted by officials and other dignitaries. From the quay the party motored by way of the Avenida Rio Branco to the Palace hotel. Street throngs shouted a welcome as the motors passed slowly toward their destination. Many persons fell in line to provide a triumphal procession.

Word of the party's safe arrival was brought here tonight by F. W. Payne, of Los Angeles, who was in Ensenada when the trio put into the harbor.

The party, traveling in the Barbier, a 34-foot combination power boat and yawl, reached the Mexican port Wednesday morning after having been delayed 14 hours by the storm that has prevailed along the coast.

PALESTINE DRIVE OPENS IN ATLANTA

Maurice Samuel, noted lecturer and author of the book "You Gentiles," was principal speaker at a mass meeting held Thursday night in the Atlanta theater to launch a drive for $25,000, which is Atlanta's quota of the United Palestine appeal for $5,000,000 for the year 1932-33.

Mr. Samuel gave a stirring talk on conditions in Palestine and told how the money that is now being raised throughout the United States will be spent. Mr. Samuel came here direct from Chattanooga, where he spoke before a capacity audience Wednesday night and will continue his lecture Saturday night in Savannah.

He has spoke every night for the last 50 nights in behalf of the movement. Mayor Walter A. Sims welcomed Mr. Samuel on behalf of the city and pledged Atlanta's support in the movement.

Other speakers at the mass meeting were L. J. Levitas, chairman of the program, who introduced Mr. Samuel and Mrs. Archibald Silverman, of New York. Miss Minna Hecker gave several vocal selections.

The United Palestine appeal for $5,000,000 for the year 1932-33 is issued in behalf of the Keren Hayesod (Palestine foundation fund), the Jewish national fund, Hadassah medical organization, Junior Hadassah, the Hebrew university fund, and the Mizrahi institutions in Palestine.

J. Saul is chairman of the local drive. Other officers are: M. Rich, chairman of the executive committee; Rabbi Tobias Giffen, Rabbi Abraham P. Hirmes, honorary vice chairman; J. Dorfman, L. J. EAST COAST STORM TAKES 30 LIVES bringing them past Sandy Hook until the weather cleared, toward evening.

Such was the condition in Greater New York, where 19,000 men were put to work clearing away the snow, and an appropriation of a million dollars was asked by Street Cleaning Commissioner Taylor. In cities and towns not so well equipped for combating the devastation wrought by the blizzard, things were worse, the storm, with its snow falling hour after hour, brought everything from inconvenience to extreme suffering, and in some instances, death.

Beneath the walls of a foundry in New Britain, Conn., when the building collapsed beneath the weight of the snow, eight lives were crushed out and others were seriously injured.

Asbury Park, N. J., witnessed a thrilling rescue by ten hardy coast guardsmen, who towed a lifeboat from Barnegat station to take three men off a coal barge which was pounding to pieces on a bar, half a mile off the coast.

60-Mile Gale.

A 50-mile gale was lashing the waves, buffeting the little lifeboat with flurries of snow that added to the difficulties as the rescuers battled through the raging sea to the stranded barge, and after they had taken off the helpless men of the barge, all three died of exposure.

Nature, besides laying this icy lash upon the Atlantic seaboard, played some strange pranks. Wilmington, Del., under a coating of ice and snow, was visited by a severe thunderstorm such as might have come along some sultry June day.

Southward of the storm area, untouched by the wintry blasts, Florida cities and towns reported warm sunshine and spring weather, while, as an ironic touch, dispatches from Alaska reported temperatures there at 40 degrees, with the natives marveling at the warmest winter in the history of the territory.

Mercury Not Low.

Temperatures in the vicinity of New York were not severely cold, ranging between 20 and 30 degrees. It was the snow and wind which caused the loss of lives and property.

Deaths in this city were due to exhaustion, over-exertion and exposure, as well as to accidents caused by the blinding snowfall. One man slipped, fell beneath a truck and was crushed; another stepped in front of a passenger train and was instantly killed. George H. Quinn, a former fire captain, dropped dead while shoveling snow from his sidewalk.

Snowfall to Cease.

The weather forecaster at Washington predicted that the snowfall would cease throughout most of the east, except northern New England, Thursday night, and that increasing cold would follow.

In Pennsylvania and interior New York state, the snowfall was particularly heavy, averaging over a foot. Middletown, N. Y., reported a 15-inch fall, which crippled bus and automobile traffic and caused schools and many business houses to close.

At Binghamton, the fall was 20 inches. Eastern and northern New York had between two and three feet in some places, the record fall of the winter. Rochester, strangely enough, escaped the worst of the storm, and rail traffic to Albany was continued.

Started From Georgia.

Starting around Georgia, the storm brought severe rainfall to the Carolinas, while it was piling snow further to the north.

In New Haven, stores closed at noon and the business section was a blanketed white.

One call for help from a ship in distress came from the raging Atlantic. The liner Edwin, bound for New York, was Eddy broke her rudder, and flashed an "S. O. S." The steamer George H. Jones stood alongside the disabled ship, but was not in immediate danger.

Waterbury, Conn., not only closed its schools, but its courts, because jurors were unable to reach the city.

TUG DRIVEN ON ISLAND OFF CAROLINA COAST.

Wilmington, N. C., February 4.—A tugboat, driven by waves and whipped by winds, the tug Low, of Miami, with a steel barge in tow, is sitting high and dry on Baldhead island tonight, a victim of Wednesday night's terrible blizzard, helpless yet practically undamaged.

The members of the crew were taken off the tug by a crew from Cape Fear life guard station before the irresistible force of the storm-maddened waves had driven the boat up on the shore.

Neither the tug nor barge are in any great danger. High water results in a certain amount of pounding, but life guard station men say this is not sufficiently violent to damage either.

DISABLED LINER DRIFTING HELPLESSLY.

Halifax, N. S., February 4.—The disabled Furness liner Manchester is still drifting helplessly about the mid-Atlantic, according to wireless messages received here tonight.

Captain Nuttall, of the Furness liner Comino, reports that he has picked up the call for assistance, and is hastening toward the disabled ship. He hopes to reach her by midnight and will endeavor to tow her to the Azores.

CREW OF 8 RESCUED FROM SCHOONER.

Scituate, Mass., February 4.—(AP)—The entire crew of eight men were rescued tonight from the schooner Kenwood, Halifax for Boston, which went ashore today on Rocky Cedar Point in a blinding snowstorm. The vessel was in danger of breaking up, but no attempt at salvage was to be made until the heavy seas went down.

The sailors were exhausted and chilled. They were brought ashore in a life boat by members of the coast guard. They said that the schooner, bearing a cargo of lumber, had been blown 135 miles off her course to the southward.

TRAIN SERVICE AT BOSTON SUSPENDED BY STORM.

Boston, February 4.—(AP)—Train service out of Boston was suspended late today because of the snowstorm which had been raging over New England since last night.

Two-way passenger congestion in two mid-city subway terminals became so serious that the stations were closed.

Railroad service was again in a few hours but was limited to a few trains. Many commuters were unable to reach their homes and to these Governor Fuller issued an invitation to spend the night in the statehouse. Notices to this effect were posted in the north and south stations. Statehouse employees set up chairs in the huge Gardner auditorium for women, and a large room in another part of the building was prepared for the men.

Thousands of commuters besieged the hotels for rooms.

Early tonight the snowfalls turned into a fine drizzle in Boston, driving almost all motor traffic from the streets.

The building committee consists of 12 members, six of whom were appointed by the board of directors as follows: Rev. E. L. Hill, D. D., chairman; Dr. L. E. McNair, Jacksonville; Dr. S. B. Hodges, Anniston, Ala.; Dr. M. Douglas, president of the Presbyterian college, Clinton, S. C.; John T. Brantley, president of the board, and Dr. R. T. Gillespie, president of the seminary. Six other members were appointed from Atlanta and are associated with this committee. They are Dr. J. Spore Lyons, Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, Dr. D. P. McGeechey, J. Bulow Campbell and Marion Smith. One vacancy, caused by the death of Paul Norcross, will be filled immediately.

Subcommittees were appointed to make necessary preliminary surveys, determine the type of architecture and direct the building program. Provision was also made for an investment committee to handle funds secured from the Atlanta and Georgia campaigns. The committee will hold another meeting in the near future to hear reports from these subcommittees and to further plans for the building and removal of the seminary.

In order that the college might be removed to Georgia, an endowment and building fund of $500,000 was sought in Georgia and a total of $825,000 was subscribed, including the site, valued at $40,000.

MAJORITY RACE BRINGS OUT TWO

Two prominent Atlantans announced Thursday that they would be candidates in the majority race to succeed Mayor Walter A. Sims. The candidates are County Commissioner J. N. Ragdale and Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward.

Mr. Ragdale for many years has been prominently identified in municipal and county affairs, and prior to the merging of Oakland City with Atlanta in 1910, he was mayor of that municipality. After the merger he represented the tenth ward on the aldermanic board, serving from 1910 to 1917 and again from 1921 to 1924.

He resigned from this office in 1924 to become a candidate for county commissioner and was successful at the polls. While a member of council he served many important committees, holding the chairmanship of the finance committee at the time of his resignation.

He was mayor pro tem in 1915 and again in 1924.

In announcing for mayor, Mr. Ragdale stated that he would tender his resignation as a member of the Fulton county commission at its next regular meeting so that his successor may be elected in the forthcoming primary on March 24. His term of office as county commissioner expires January 1, 1928.

Alderman Couch has been a leader in civic and political circles for many years. He has served as alderman for eight years and during that time has made a record of not missing a single meeting.

The candidate is the oldest member of council in point of service and has served on all of important committees of that body.

Cochran Urged To Run.

Rumors were current Thursday that Dr. A. H. Cochran, 400 Gordon street, former councilman for seven years and mayor pro tem in 1925, probably would be a candidate for the county commission post now held by Mr. Ragdale.

Dr. Cochran is well known to Atlantans and was a prominent figure in council circles for many years.

He declined Thursday night to say positively whether he would be a candidate but did say he was considering the matter and probably would have a definite announcement later this week.

saying she went to the Scott apartment to visit Mrs. Scott, but "lost her head," had misconstrued her meaning.

"I told her I went out to horse-whip my husband, but I lost my head and shot the woman," Mrs. Farmer said. "I told her I went out to appeal to Mrs. Scott—for my husband's sake and for the sake of our babies."

Wanted Husband.

Mrs. Farmer told of the alleged relationship between Mrs. Scott and her husband and efforts to end them.

"Why didn't you give him a divorce?" asked the jury. "I was asked on cross-examination."

"Just to protect him," she said, "I refused to give him a divorce on account of the weakness of his nature."

the present congress that budget recommendations have been exceeded.

The only unusual item in the bill, the house appropriations committee, which the measure reports, was that of $60,000,000 for replacing supplies taken from the war reserve, which is maintained on a basis for an army of one million men.

118,583 Enlisted Men.

The appropriation for the army contemplated continuance for another year of an average of 118,583 enlisted men and 11,786 officers, with a reduction of the enlisted strength of the "Philippine scouts from 6,000 to 7,000 men."

A saving of $988,000 was made in army pay, the committee said, by reducing the number of noncommissioned officers and privates of the first class. Vacancies occurring in these grades will be filled only as funds may permit.

Of the total, $261,081,000 was appropriated for the military activities of the department and $78,500,000 for the non-military functions. Of the latter, $50,000,000 was carried for river and harbor work.

Secretary of War Davis made clear that he favored material increases for the Panama and Hawaiian Islands garrisons, but he said:

Cannot Be Decreased.

"I do not see how they can be increased very materially. They certainly cannot be decreased. The force within the continental United States is about 89,000 only, and it is not enough to care for the training of the civilian components."

Housing conditions in the army all amount to a national scandal, the secretary said, and replying to a question, took occasion to deny that the army air service had received the "stepchild" treatment. The appropriation of $15,050,000 carried in the bill for the air service was an increase of $350,000 above current funds. A contract authorization of $3,000,000 also was written in to provide for 305 new airplanes.

BISHOP MANN FAVORS DRY LAW MODIFICATION.

Pittsburgh, Pa., February 4.—"The fact that every bootlegger would vote for the continuance of the Volstead law is proof that it is not a good law," said Bishop Alexander Mann, of the Episcopal diocese of Pittsburgh, on the query as to his own ideas on the proposed action of the temperance society of the church to ask that the Volstead act be modified.

"Personally, I did not believe in the eighteenth amendment, and I think the Volstead act is a bad law. Prohibition cannot possibly be enforced. The law is resented by many persons, good and bad, who feel it an infringement."

"Understand me plainly—I do not believe in breaking dry law. I believe in keeping the law, once it is passed, but I do believe that bad laws should be modified."

"There is no doubt but prohibition has caused more drinking among the younger set. And we all know that the liquor being sold today is sheer poison."

CHICAGO EPISCOPALIANS REPUDIATE STATEMENT.

Chicago, February 4.—Church circles in Chicago and the ranks of prohibition advocates, temperance workers and public officials, were stirred today by the announcement of the church temperance society of the Episcopal church that a poll of its members had shown a sentiment in favor of modification of the Volstead law.

Edwin J. Randall, secretary of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, issued a statement in which he said the society does not represent the Episcopal church.

Bishop Charles P. Anderson declared that the society was made up entirely of easterners, and that he did not know of a single member in Chicago.

"The church temperance society has a membership of 20,000," said Secretary Randall. "The Episcopal church has a communicant membership of 1,200,000, which means a probable membership of 5,000,000."

"Whatever the views of the officers or members of the church temperance society are, therefore, it is quite clear they do not represent the Episcopal church. The Episcopal church has never officially or by referendum vote of individual members, put itself on record one way or the other in regard to the 18th amendment and the Volstead act."

NORTHERN METHODISTS BACK UP PROHIBITION.

Chicago, February 4.—(AP)—The board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church in Chicago today affirmed the loyalty of the church and all its agencies to prohibition. Bishop Leonard, of Buffalo, N. Y., offered the resolution, which was unanimously adopted, declaring:

"We record our appreciation of the strong, uncompromising position taken by the presidents of our educational institutions in support of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead enforcement act, and assure them of the unqualified support of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church in all its efforts which it deems to be in the interests of the republic, in the efforts which are being made to secure professors and teachers concerning whom there is no question of their loyalty to prohibition and law enforcement."

BISHOP MANNING SAID TO FAVOR MODIFICATION.

New York, February 4.—Bishop William T. Manning, of New York, while declining to comment today upon the announcement made by the Church Temperance society in favor of modification of the Volstead law to legalize light wine and beer, indirectly indicated that he favors the program of the society.

Bishop Manning's attitude was commented on by the Rev. G. A. Carstensen, rector of the Holy Rood Episcopal church, who was elected to the presidency of the society at its 51st annual meeting in January.

"I saw Bishop Manning last Friday," said Dr. Carstensen. "He congratulated me on my election to the office and told me to 'hop to it.'"

At the bishop's residence it was said Dr. Manning would not comment on the society's action as he is not a member. Pressed as to whether Dr. Carstensen had quoted him correctly, the bishop's secretary said:

"Dr. Manning was quoted correctly in the morning papers." All the morning papers carried the information that Dr. Carstensen had quoted Bishop Manning as telling him to "hop to it," as it was taken by many persons to mean, "get the Volstead act modified," as this is the society's avowed program.

barbers at the time it was introduced.

He denied that it was an attempt at "class legislation."

An effort to table the measure by Councilman White was made after the roll call had been made.

"If such legislation is necessary, it should be passed through the state legislature," he said.

Offered as Substitute.

The motion to table the measure, made by Councilman White, was offered as a substitute for a motion by Councilman White that the matter be referred to a special committee. He asked that Chairman Buchanan appoint a committee of five to give the paper consideration.

The motion was supported by Councilman Cecil Allen and Alderman W. B. Hartfield. Alderman Hartfield said that the ordinance committee is now flooded with matters of importance, and a special committee that could give the matter its entire attention should be appointed.

Councilman Russell offered the motion to give the bill to the ordinance committee for a public hearing as a substitute for both motions. Following introduction of the three motions, a call was made for a vote, and the motion to refer the bill to the ordinance committee was almost unanimously passed on viva voce vote.

CARDINAL MERCIER LEFT NO FORTUNE, WILL DISCLOSES

Brussels, February 4.—(AP)—The will of Cardinal Mercier, executed in 1908 and made public today, says he was without personal fortune, having consecrated to good works his income from publication and other sources.

Money on hand at the time of his death, the will stipulates, will be spent in paying for his funeral and for the arrears in his household expenses. Any surplus is to go to charity.

The cardinal leaves to his nephews his equity in a cottage in the country and advises them to make their living by their own work.

The document dedicates the life of the cardinal and his flock to God. It asks the pardon of all those he may have wronged and forgives those who may have wronged him.

Two Groups of Stars Shown In Masked Player Contest

Two groups of stars in The Constitution Masked Players contest are being shown at Loew's Grand theater this week so that persons desiring to enter the contest who missed the first week's special picture can use the coupon published in this issue of this paper and enter the contest now. This is the last week that these two groups will be shown hence this will be the last week contestants may enter if they expect to win any of the 200 prizes amounting to $600 offered winners by The Constitution. Writing slogans for the stars whose names are guessed in the contest is proving to be one of the most interesting features of the contest. The players appear in special film episodes wearing masks. The contestants must identify these players and provide each with a slogan. Mary Pickford, for instance, is known as "America's Sweetheart." Fitting slogans must be written for the 20 Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen stars who appear in the contest. Four groups of masked players are to be shown. The first and second group, eight in all, are being shown this week. The third group will be shown next week and the fourth group the week following.

The three masked players appearing this week ought to be easy to identify. One of them is one of the stars in "Ben Hur" and drives a chariot. The other two are women stars. One is shown in an automobile trying to vamp a speed cop. The other is seen sitting for her portrait before Howard Chandler Christy, artist. This film is particularly interesting because it is the first that shows the famous artist actually at work.

There is room for eight players on The Constitution coupon this week, five for the first group and three spaces for the group appearing this week. There is plenty of time to enter the contest on an equal footing with other contestants but after this week no special films will be repeated. Get in the game, have a lot of fun and it is possible that you will win one of the big prizes, the first prize being $125 in cash, the second $75, third $50 and fourth $25. There are 196 other valuable awards.

ATLANTA-ROME ROAD IN GOOD CONDITION

The highway between Atlanta and Rome, by way of Marietta, Acworth and Cartersville is now in excellent condition, according to Captain W. G. Roper, of Dixie Coaches, Inc. Captain Roper made the round trip between Atlanta and Rome on one of his coaches Wednesday and Thursday declared that autoists would now experience absolutely no trouble on this highway.

Captain Roper stated, however, that the bad condition of the stretch just beyond Acworth, which was practically impassable around Christmastime, has resulted in a tremendous lessening in the amount of travel by this highway. Although the road has since been put in excellent condition, he says the traveling public, which heard about the bad conditions, has not yet been informed of the improvement, with the result that most autoists are avoiding this route.

"In place of 150 Florida-bound cars I counted on this road a few weeks ago, I saw only five when I rode from Atlanta to Rome Wednesday morning," said Captain Roper. "And only three were going in the opposite direction from Florida."

"The hotels at Rome are far from full, as they were a few weeks back. I am sure the Atlanta hotels are losing just as many patrons, to say nothing of the loss to the business men in Atlanta by the amount of traffic that is avoiding the route. Probably six hundred cars which should have come through Atlanta on Wednesday passed around the city."

Captain Roper urged that commercial organizations take immediate steps to advise tourists from other states that the bad road has been remedied and there is now an excellent highway on this route.

CONGRESSMAN COX
UNDERGOES OPERATION

The condition of Judge Edward Eugene Cox, of Camilla, congressman from the second district, who was taken to Davis-Fischer sanitarium Thursday, was reported by attendants to be "fair" after an operation. Unless complications develop, he is expected to recover.

He became ill suddenly while on his way from Washington to Camilla, and a physician traveling with him wired to T. R. Bennett, superintendent of the state banking department, and formerly of Camilla, to arrange to carry him to a local hospital.

His condition was so critical that it was necessary to wait a few hours before operating, it was learned. Acute intestinal trouble was given as the cause of the attack.

Judge Cox's wife and daughter, who are in Washington, were wired and are expected to arrive in Atlanta this morning. His son in Camilla also was notified.

Judge Cox is one of the most prominent jurists in south Georgia. He was judge of the Albany circuit from 1913 to 1914. The Albany circuit includes Baker, Calhoun, Colquitt, De Kalb, Early, Mitchell, Seminole, Miller, Grady, Dougherty, Tift, Thomas and Worth counties. Judge Cox is now serving his first term in congress.

3 HELD ON CHARGE OF HAVING LIQUOR

Charged with violating the federal prohibition law three men were bound over to await action of the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner L. S. Ledbetter Thursday. J. R. Chatham was held under $300 bond and Louis House and W. C. House were held under $250 bonds each. Prohibition agents placed Cathay under arrest as he was carrying a suit case, said to have contained three gallons of whiskey, into a residence on Hood street. Cathay said the other two men did not know he had any whiskey but were merely passengers in his automobile.

BAILEY IS WOUNDED BY ACCIDENTAL SHOT

A flesh wound in the back, near the left shoulder blade, sent Monroe Bailey, 22, of 23 Katherwood drive, to the Grady hospital Thursday morning for treatment. He was allowed to go after the wound was dressed.

Bailey, doctors said, did not discuss the manner in which he was wounded, except that the pistol must have been accidentally discharged in the hands of a friend.

No report of the shooting has been filed with the police.

VICE SQUAD MAKES 453 CASES IN MONTH

Four hundred and fifty-three arrests were made during January by the vice squad of the police department. Lieutenant E. S. Acree announced Thursday his monthly report to Chief of Police E. L. Jeff. Fines from these cases amounted to $4,541, the report showed.

Of the 453 arrests made, 195 were state cases and others were police court cases. The offenses ranged from violation of the state prohibition law to being an occupant of a dive.

Thirteen persons were arrested in raids conducted early Thursday by the vice squad. Lieutenant L. F. Carter, with a squad of uniformed men, raided an apartment at 637 North Boulevard and arrested Mrs. E. Day and Miss Sarah Martin, both of the Boulevard address, and J. J. Bussey, of 9 East Alexander street. A small amount of whiskey was seized, officers reported.

Members of the vice squad continued their operations Wednesday night and Thursday morning and arrested two men and two negro women in a raid on Courtland street. Five women and one man were arrested in another Courtland street raid.

GOVERNOR'S PLAN FAVORED AT CAIRO

Cairo, Ga., February 4.—(Special.)
Strong endorsement was given Governor Clifford Walker's program for the development of Georgia throughout the day at the annual session of the Georgia Educational Association held here today. The first introduced Wednesday endorsed a plan to unify the different school boards of the state into a centralized board. This was adopted upon after amendments had been added.
A second resolution, favoring the setting aside of a Sunday for "educational day," at which time matters dealing with the schools of the church should be discussed, was also passed.
Other officers elected today were Dr. C. M. Woodard, dean of men at Emory university, and Mrs. J. H.
McVoy, president of Athens college,
Alabama, as vice presidents, and W.
E. Hogan, treasurer of the church education board, Nashville, Tenn., as secretary-treasurer.

EDUCATION HEAD NAMED BY BAPTISTS

Memphis, Tenn., February 4.—(AP)— Dr. M. B. Adams, president of Georgetown college, Georgetown, Ky., was elected president of the Southern Baptist Education association, which met here today in annual conference.
Dr. E. G. Townsend, Baylor college, Belton, was elected vice president and Dr. A. H. Bond, Birmingham, Ala., secretary.
Dr. H. E. Watters, of Union university, Jackson, Tenn., and Dr. E.
V. Bailey, Judson college, Marion, Ala., were chosen as members of the executive committee.
Dr. C. E. Burtis, of Nashville, director of the cooperative program of the Southern Baptist convention, told the college executives to seek a fuller enlightenment of the churches as a whole rather than looking to a comparative few people of large means to provide funds needed to endow and equip their institutions. Dr. Burtis pointed out that during the past five years the southern Baptist churches in their cooperative capacity had put $156, 000,000 into local church enterprises and $78,000,000 into missions, education and benevolences as compared with $7,000,000 contributed by individuals as direct gifts.

Kidnaped Girl Is Held Captive In Woods Cabin

Candlen, N. J., February 4.—(AP)—
In a cabin hidden in the woods on the outskirts of the city detectives early today found 15-year-old Genevieve Vase, who has been missing from her home in Syracuse, N. Y., for three weeks. With her was Myron Faling, 32, also of Syracuse, married and a father.
The girl was taken back to Syracuse by her father, apparently overjoyed by her release. Faling was arrested.
The father attempted to attack Faling when the pair met in the Candlen county jail, but was restrained by police.
"It was her beauty made me do it," Faling told the police. "I was crazy.
I was crazy, I guess. I loved her.
I was mad about her. I have guarded her and taken care of her and have not harmed her and she will tell you I have always treated her with respect."
"I did not know Faling," Miss Vase said, "except just to speak to. One day I saw him on the streets. He had an automobile and asked me to take a ride. I got in and he would not let me out again. We drove and drove, and finally came to the cabin in the woods. He made me go out and see if I dared to run away he would follow me and shoot me."
The couple was located through the Faling wrote his wife all speaking in glowing terms of the beauty and sweetness of Genevieve.
Mrs. Faling turned the letters over to the authorities.

French Deputies Vote For Posting Income Tax Rolls

Paris, February 4.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies decided today to follow the American example and open the income tax rolls to the public.
It even went a step further by providing for posting all declarations at the offices of the mayors of the communes in the country and arrondissements in the city.
This unexpected development, coming after the check given by the chamber last evening to the socialists on the question of obligatory declarations by all who have incomes, illustrates how the pendulum swings back and forth between extreme measures and moderation in the financial debates.
The adoption of this measure, in the opinion of parliamentary experts, greatly increases the possibility of rejection of the Cartel's financial scheme by the senate.
Deputy Balaunat, from Brittany, a hero of most of the chamber's prelati-cous encounters, solemnly introduced an amendment to the finance bill, providing that detailed declarations of the revenues of all senators and deputies be published in the official journal—the French Congressional Record—together with lists of the number, variety and horsepower of their automobiles, the number of their riding horses or teams, the figures of their personal fortunes, as they stood on August 1, 1914, and November 11, 1918.

Get Depositions Today In Dean Will Litigation

Another chapter in the fight of Frank Deans, who claims to be the son and only heir of the late Robert M. Deans, wealthy Atlanta broker, will be written today when depositions are taken in superior court by Walter Schools, court commissioner.
The document, probated in the Fulton ordinary's court, leaves the bulk of the estate to relatives, and a valuable piece of Peachtree road property to Miss Beila Lawrence, popular Atlanta girl.
Mrs. Charles S. Leuthenburgh and Frank Deans, 20, of Detroit, Miss Lawrence, Mrs. Susan Deans, mother of Robert Deans; Oscar Gartrell, negro orderly, who attended Mr. Deans in his last sickness, and W. G. Cleveland, employed in the Deans' brokerage firm, will give depositions.
Horace Russell, the son's attorney, Vivian B. Moore, Miss Lawrence's adviser, and lawyers for beneficiaries of the testament will be present.
Miss Lawrence attended Mr. Deans during his sickness and at one time accompanied him to the Mayo clinic, Minneapolis, Minn., where he made a will leaving all his property to her.
He became better and returned to Atlanta only to be stricken again. It was during this last stroke that he made the second will over which the court fight began over a year ago.
Miss Lawrence never offered her will for probate but has declared if the one under litigation is broken, she will file it now.
The governor was introduced by Judge J. W. Richey, of the city courts of Cairo and Whigham, who praised him for his present crusade for the progress of the state.
"I come not to give you a pessimistic story," the executive said, "and neither do I come to convert you to my ideas. But I want to submit for your consideration some of the arguments in favor of providing better education for the masses.
"We refer proudly to our state and the nation as the 'land of the free.'
But I say from the depths of my heart that we are only one-half free when so many of our children are growing up in shackles of ignorance and superstition."
The governor appealed largely for a continuance of the school consolidation movement here, as the people of Grady county have already approved plans for county trans-county paved highways, and a health unit was established here this week.
The governor was entertained at a luncheon here after which he left for Oglethorpe, Thomas county. He returned to Atlanta tonight.

POLICE ARE PROBING 4 BURGLARY CASES

Police and detectives are investigating four robberies, three of which occurred early Thursday morning.
Three grocery stores and a candy factory were entered.
A quantity of smoking tobacco, cigars and groceries were taken from the grocery store of M. Glazer, at 40 Hill street. Patrolmen A. J. Coppenger and James C. Alpha investigated.
A small savings bank, containing a few dollars in change, a pistol, cigars, tobacco and a variety of assortment of groceries were stolen from the grocery store of S. Viner, of 121 Markham street. Detectives Roy Whitley and Leon Evans are investigating.
The grocery store of Nathan Pen-nrich, 128 N. Third street, was robbed.
Detectives W. A. Goode and W. F.
Bullard believe that the thief was locked into the store at closing time, consideration being to disclose any evidence of forcible entry.
A quantity of groceries was taken.
The other establishment visited by a thief was Frank E. Block Can--company on Elliot street. Materials used in the making of candy were taken.

TRIAL OF MITCHELL COST GOVERNMENT MORE THAN $35,000

Washington, February 4.—The court-martial of William Mitchell, formerly chief of the army air service, and who resigned a few days ago because he remained in the army as a colonel on half pay, cost the war department more than $35,000, it became known today, when reports of the executive session hearings of the appropriations committee were published.
Major General Hull, advocate general of the army, told the committee when he appeared that the total cost was not known as yet, but that it would amount to about $35,000.
Mitchell's fiscal year of 1925,
Major General Robert Davis, adjutant general of the army, declared there were slightly more than 13,000 desertions from the army reported, or 7.15 per cent of the entire strength.
During the same period, there were 5,079 general court-martials, involving 5,475 officers, enlisted men and cadets at the military academy, General Hull reported.

GEORGIA TRUSTEES TO MEET IN ATLANTA

Athens, Ga., February 4.—(Special.)—Judge Richard B. Russell, chairman of the University of Georgia board of trustees, has called a meeting of the board in Atlanta, February 13.
The meeting is for the purpose of considering matters of interest to the educational institutions in the state under the university system.

AUTO OF DR. THRASH HIT BY STREET CAR

Dr. E. C. Thrash, well-known Atlanta physician, who lives on Boulder Crest drive, narrowly escaped serious injury when his coupe was wrecked by a street car at Peachtree street and Merriitts avenue Thursday night.
According to a report of Motorcycle
Officers W. Tom Milam and L. E.
Busby, Dr. Thrash had just entered Peachtree street from Merriitts avenue when the street car, operated by Motorman C. W. Cunningham and in charge of Conductor R. Moss, struck his coupe, knocking his car a distance of 40 feet down Peachtree. Dr. Thrash was not injured.

To the Policy-Holders of New York Life Insurance Co.

A Mutual Organization • Founded in 1845 • Incorporated Under the Laws of New York

346 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.

LIFE Insurance is not a commodity; it is service, scientific social service. Its beneficence, however, is not limited to paying death-claims. It touches society at many points and renders many services of which few people ever think. As policy-holders you are public benefactors, not merely because you have protected society by protecting your dependents, but because you are advancing human efficiency and human happiness through the beneficent activities of this Company's assets.

The assets of this Company benefit both the insured and the uninsured. They reach all—even as the rain falls on the just and on the unjust.

In the year 1925 the Finance Committee invested in securities that demanded discrimination and judgment

$151,371,950.10, to yield on the average, 5.36%

Analyze that total and you at once see how widely and directly it touches and helps the community at large. This is the picture:

MUNICIPAL BONDS: A capital investment of $1,044,177.06, to yield 4.33%.

REAL ESTATE MORTGAGES: During 1925 the Committee made 6,895 separate mortgage loans in forty-one States, the District of Columbia and Canada, aggregating $93,534,753.22 to yield 5.57%. These mortgages in detail were divided as follows:

5,151 Loans on residential property, representing a capital investment of $28,562,173.86, accommodating 5,940 families.
635 Loans on apartment and housing projects, a capital investment of $26,327,240.00 accommodating 8,117 families. A total of 14,057 families.
170 Loans on business properties, a capital investment of $32,801,731.10.
939 Loans on farms, a capital investment of $5,843,608.26.

Capital soundly invested in Mortgages on Real Estate is safe; it yields good return, and renders a genuine public service. Your investment in mortgages of over ninety-three million dollars in the year 1925 appears in the balance-sheet

below as part of your total investment in mortgages amounting to $353,627,202.42.
That total is divided into exactly the classifications I have made of the investments of 1925 and is all equally useful.

RAILROAD BONDS: In this class of securities the Committee in 1925 made a capital investment of $21,416,375.55 to yield 4.99%, as follows:

In bonds secured by mortgages on bridge and terminal properties..... $ 1,558,365.00

In equipment trust certificates secured by locomotives, freight and passenger cars..... 8,882,184.18

In bonds secured by mortgages on railroads, covering mileage located in 31
States and the District of Columbia..... 10,975,826.37

This Company has long been a large investor in Railroad Bonds. It fought vigorously to secure the Transportation Act of 1920 under which the railroads of the country have been rehabilitated. The twenty-one millions and over invested in 1925 is a part of the total which appears in the balance-sheet below, $325,062,694.07.

That total is in turn a part of the service to the country which is constantly being rendered by the railroads.

PUBLIC UTILITY BONDS: Here in 1925 the Committee made a capital investment of $35,376,644.27, to yield 5.04%, as follows:

In bonds secured by mortgages on gas, electric light and power properties..... $25,605,115.07

In bonds secured by mortgages on telephone properties..... 9,771,529.20

Public Utility enterprises represent a relatively recent development, and are closely allied to all the comforts, conveniences and necessities of present-day life. Your investments in bonds of this class in the year 1925 represent properties operating in twenty-five States in which dwell approximately 73,000,000 people. These institutions have 13,000,000 consumers, and a fixed capital investment of three thousand million dollars. Through your investment of over thirty-five million dollars in 1925 and your earlier investments of the same sort you have become a considerable supporter and a definite part of that great and indispensable modern development. Every dollar of the total investment in public utilities is hard at work adding to the sum of human comfort.

In the balance-sheet below the activities of the Finance Committee for the year 1925 and in previous years are projected on a larger screen. After eighty-one years of business the Company's assets on December 31, 1925 (taking bonds at market value), amounted to $1,149,471,556.02. We are not here considering the strictly Life Insurance function of that accumulation, which of course is its first function. We are emphasizing the fact that every dollar of that huge sum is working every minute in the public interest, something you as policy-holders seldom think of, something the public is scarcely aware of. You insured your lives in this Company primarily to protect your old age and your dependents. You performed a good deed. Good deeds go far. They illustrate the truth of what Portia says in the "Merchant of Venice":

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Your policies are separate candles; they shine far.

DARWIN P. KINGSLEY, President.

THE GUMPS—JUST A SONG AT TWILIGHT

MONTE CARLO

By L. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

INSTALLMENT XLVII.
HOBSON RUNS AMUCK.

The usual glow of pleasure was absent from Violet's face. She looked all around. There was no one within hearing distance. "A short time before you came," she confided, "Mr. Trentino came in alone from the hotel. I think he's a horrid looking man anyhow, but when he came in he looked simply ghastly. His eyes were red and his mouth was cruel. He looked just like the picture of that murderer in this morning's Eclairer."

Hargrave smiled. "As a matter of fact," he observed, "I don't think that Mr. Trentino had enjoyed his dinner."

"O, it was something worse than that," she went on, almost impatiently. "Several people spoke to him, but he took no notice. He was looking for some one. He didn't see him, but I was there when he found him. He was looking for that man with the horn-rimmed spectacles who was standing behind him this afternoon."

"I know," Hargrave muttered—"Sam Hobson. I have my own suspicions of that man."

"Well, they sat down together on that settee over there, and Trentino talked to him. The man with the spectacles didn't seem to like what Mr. Trentino was saying. Mr. Trentino was very much in earnest. Then I heard your name."

Hargrave nodded. "It wouldn't surprise me in the least," he confessed, "to know that they were talking about me."

"Directly I heard that," she continued, "I tried to listen. After a time they got up and left the roulette room by the lower door. I left it by the top one and walked toward the stairs. They were standing in the corner there, and I saw Mr. Trentino give the other man a great roll of notes—mille notes I think they were—and something which he covered with his handkerchief. I just caught a glitter. I believe it was one of those horrible automatic pistols."

"This gets interesting," Hargrave admitted.

"What could he want it for—here?" she demanded. "And I heard your name—I heard it distinctly. They both looked horrid. The man with the glasses pretends to be so good humored, and is always smiling at every one. To me he looked almost as repulsive as Mr. Trentino."

He spun around and swayed as though about to fall.

"What happened then?" Hargrave asked.

"The man with the glasses—Mr. Hobson, you say his name is—went back to the rooms. I saw him sit down at the top roulette table and begin to play. He is playing there now. There was almost a crowd around him a few minutes ago."

"Winning?"

"He was winning at first," she replied. "Afterwards I think he began to lose. But—please don't think me silly—they frighten me. We couldn't go now, could we?"

"If you will feel happier," Hargrave assented. "We must wait a moment, though. Here come Robert and his young American inamorata. I rather promised that I'd make her acquaintance."

Violet resumed her seat, and smiled a greeting at the girl. With some diffidence Robert came forward.

"May I introduce you to Miss Wegges, sir?" he asked. "You know her father."

Hargrave rose to his feet and offered his place.

"Your father came over with Mr. Trentino, didn't he?" Hargrave inquired.

"Yes, we came over last week," she replied. "Dad seems disappointed with his trip so far."

"I hope you are not?" Hargrave asked politely.

"I think Monte Carlo is lovely," she pronounced, accepting a cigarette.

"This is Sadie's first trip abroad," Robert put in.

"Dad's sorry he ever came," she confided. "He hates being parted from his business, and he says there's nothing doing over here. I guess he and Mr. Trentino aren't getting on any too well just now."

"Mr. Trentino is a somewhat difficult person," Hargrave remarked. The girl admitted that he was. "You're not keen on him, are you, Sir Hargrave?"

"How do you know that?" the latter asked good-humoredly.

"O, I hear him talking with dad," she explained. "They think I don't understand. Robert, give me another cigarette, there's a dear boy."

"Would one be committing an indiscretion?" Hargrave inquired with an assumption of diffidence, "if one were to ask your age?"

"I'm eighteen," she confided, lowering her voice. "We had to put twenty on my passport or I shouldn't have got in the rooms."

She leaned back in her chair, smoking her cigarette with immense satisfaction, her impudent little face wreathed in smiles.

"Sir Hargrave," she said, "may I ask you a question?"

"You may ask me whatever you like, you most amazing child," he replied.

"This morning I heard dad say to Mr. Trentino that if you're going to stay obstinate he might just as well pull up stakes and get over to London. I'm set on staying here, and so is mother. Seems to rest with you. You're not going to drive us away, are you?"

"I should regret your departure immensely," Hargrave assured her gravely. "So, I feel certain, would Robert. Your father is Mr. Trentino's legal adviser, isn't he?"

"Yes," Sadie assented.

She looked up at him, her elflike little face full of provocative appeal.

"You're a better advocate than your father anyhow, Miss Sadie," he said.

Then for a moment their conversation was abandoned and they all turned their heads. Outside in the main bar the buzz of voices had suddenly ceased. There was an ominous silence, a shout of warning, the sound of a table on which were many glasses crashing to the ground. A valet de pied was sent hurtling into another. Both lost their balance and fell, one on the carpet, the other amidst a little group of astonished people. Through the opening to the annex, Hobson forced his way, his hair disheveled, his face paling down, his coat half off his back where some one had attempted to seize him. He looked for a moment at the window, which was fast closed, and then glared around with the fury of an animal at bay. In his left hand he was clutching a huge sheaf of mille notes onto which the blood from a wound in his face was dripping. Even as he hesitated for that second as though in despair at finding himself in a cul de sac, doubtful as to his next movement, two of the liveried servants of the place were upon him. He swung around, his left hand diving into his pocket. He threw one swift glance around. Violet gave a shriek of horror, dragging Hargrave closer to her, for in that glance she seemed to read premeditation. The foremost of the pursuers had seized the man's left hand and closed upon the great pile of notes. Suddenly the right hand flashed out of his pocket, something gleamed in the light, was pressed for a moment to his forehead. He spun around and swayed, as though about to fall. There was the click of a pistol, the hiss of a bullet crashing into the soft wall. In another second Hobson was on his back, with half a dozen men around him.

Period Furniture Talk Features Meeting.

The art department of the Atlanta Woman's club held its study class on American art Tuesday morning, Mrs. James R. Little chairman.

The subject of the morning was the beginning of foreign influence. Mrs. Charles Lorrains led the class in this, telling most interestingly of the independence of the early American artists and of how they had practically no instruction from the old country.

George R. Hinman continued the talk on period furniture begun in the previous lesson, defining the distinctive characteristics of the different makes of furniture. Chippendale, who came under the influence of the Italian renaissance and who, therefore, created a rather florid and ornate style (this later developed into the rococo in France), was followed by Sheraton who, coming under the influence of the Puritan movement, designed on more severe and simple lines. Often the two are merged.

Mr. Hinman gave a picturesque description of the times. Chippendale's shop was the rendezvous for all the famous artists and literary men of his day; Sir Joshua Reynolds and all that group of artists; Oliver Goldsmith, Sheridan, Garrick, the actor, and many others. He pointed out humorously that the delicacy and slenderness of the chairs belonged to the days when the men with swords buckled to the sides sat down very gingerly and sedately on the edge of the chair, never tipping back or putting their feet on the table, and the women, too, preserved decorum and elegance in sitting quite different from today and much less dangerous to a delicately designed chair.

They have a little shop of their own on the Third Floor.

CHANEL INTRODUCED—The two-piece frock. Rich's has had one version of it reproduced in this chateau Georgette, snug of hip and flared of skirt. You will like its clever silk braiding—its long tied sleeves. It is of a truth worthy to be classed as an "Exclusivity." Its price? Just $49.50.

CHIFFON PRINTS—In red and green—the "ROSES that bloom in the spring, tra la la!" on a long-waisted Carolyn afternoon frock. They run riotously over a navy tulle. Colored beads, like dewdrops that have caught the rays of the rising sun, sparkle here and there. A wild rose crepe slip peeps through. $39.50.

CHINESE DAMASK—the new Honan fabric for Spring—fashions this frock. It has a skirt of pleats, the vogue that bids fair to rival flares. Bands of Palmetto green contrast appropriately with white—for the season of budding young blossoms and trees. The gown's short sleeves make it especially desirable for afternoon. $49.50.

SLAMS AND SALAMS

By Louise Dooly

THE formula Fanny Hurst uses for the writing of a successful story is so simple that we almost feel we ought not to reveal it. To tell, would be like opening a rich diamond mine for unlimited production and thus lowering at once the value of diamonds.

If we make public Miss Hurst's automatic system, will not everybody put forward best-sellers, and then who would be left to read everybody else's? Still she didn't pledge us to secrecy, and it makes good reading; so here it is:

She just takes a person or group of people in a certain setting, with given conditions, and then works out how they would be liable to act under these circumstances.

Could anything be more beautifully simple? Why isn't everybody doing it?

THE HAT SYMBOLIC.
BUT to tell the truth, we were a lot more interested in examining Miss Hurst's hats when she was in Asheville than we were in probing her writing methods. "Aren't we all?"

We might have asked her what she thought would be the next general tendency in literature if we ever get beyond sex as the universal theme.

Or what she thinks of the Charleston as the sequentennial renaissance of the spirit of America first trade marked in 1776. And such like.

THE EYE FEMINE.
BUT we have acquired the reputation of studying what the public wants when it looks in on a celebrity. And so, although it was not up to us this time to interview the most talked of women among American women writers, yet instinctively our trained eye went to her modified tam-o-shanter so straight and quick you could see dotted lines from one to the other just as you do in the cartoons.

There was another reason besides the reportorial, a purely feminine reason: Every woman should cultivate the style that suits her. She should find out what it is and stick to it.

Haven't you heard and read that bromide, my sister women, till it makes you ill? Especially when you have tried to buy the style that suits you and found again and again that fashion prescribes and the shops supply a standardized style or limited set of styles to which you have got to submit, or go without?

All of Miss Hurst's books and stories rolled into one could not make as graphic to us the emphasis of her personality as did that apparently feminine fable that she wears always the same kind of hat. All the king's horses and all the queen's milliners couldn't change her.

COMMENT VS. CRITICISM.
NOW this, as you observe, is not an interview. Miss Hurst has come in our midst and gone.

This is just comment, which bears no much relation to an interview as our occasional commentaries on books in this column have to look reviews.

If you pretend to write criticisms of books, the standardized method is to put yourself in the author's attitude toward his subject, if you can, and then point out how near his intention, or how far from it, the result is.

Our commentaries are quite different. Indeed we frequently write 'em before we read the book. Maybe we have no intention of reading it.

WHY IS A BOOK?
A BOOK to us is not just a literary work. It is a potential influence, good or bad, on life, on thought, and as such is to be considered as a human event, even more than as a literary incident.

But does not that shut out the importance, say, of style? (in which lies the whole of the importance of some books.)

Not at all. Because the strength of a style can carry a book's influence, good or bad, where the story itself weakly put forward, would get the book nowhere.

We haven't read Fanny Hurst's "Appassionata," just one of the present. But we are ready to declare our purpose of letting our opinion for her work rest on some earlier or later volume.

For "Appassionata" has for its heroine a girl for whose religious vocation Miss Hurst gives the Freudian explanation, and that, to a person who knows the Roman Catholic ideal of a religious vocation, is utterly abhorrent, repugnant and impossible.

THE SPIRITUALITY OF A MODERNIST.
FOR any author to attempt to describe the spiritual experience which leads a woman to embrace the absolute negation of the world and the flesh, when that author has no better equipment for the task than the Freud-trained imagination of what is spiritual, would be like our writing a novel on Einstein's theory of relativity. We should be distinctly on the outside of our subject.

The church is a pioneer at psychoanalysis. It has been at it some hundred years. And a young woman with the complex of "Appassionata's" heroine would have as much chance to get beyond a novitiate as a snow ball to last through July. The first preparation in a novitiate is to discipline the imagination. And the religious life, contrary to a somewhat popular opinion, shared apparently even by people of Miss Hurst's unquestioned intelligence, has no patience with hysteria.

This little commentary on Miss Hurst's remarkable discovery of the spiritual life may prove better publicity for her new book than would a polite review, especially since Roman Catholicism is a thing of the past in these regions. And too many people, when they read, prefer the sensational to the accurate.

But here's the finale, and a piece of news. Miss Hurst expects to come south again a little later, and it is interesting that she will probably bring with her to Asheville Rebecca West, distinguished English figure in the world of letters, who lands in this country in February.

Then who shall say that the south need lack in literary inspiration?

PROGRESS OF SOUTH SHOWN IN RATING OF ATLANTA BANK

An indication of the growth in industry, commerce and finance which Georgia is experiencing, is seen in the listing of the Citizens & Southern bank among the first 100 largest banking institutions of the nation, according to statements of the bank Thursday.

This list is compiled annually by the American Banker, a daily financial paper, and the Citizens & Southern has been in the ranks for the past three years.

Only one bank in the south stands higher than the local institution and that is the Canal-Commercial Trust & Savings bank of New Orleans, placed 68th in the list, while the Citizens & Southern is 84th. Only five southern banks are contained in the list.

The GILDED ROSE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER 59. Misgivings.

Lydia stooped down and picked them up, while Rosilyn lit a candle that was on a little table by the bedside.

"Put them all in the empty grate. And set this light to them."

To her own astonishment, Lydia did heap the letters in a pile and then took the candle from her hostess's hand. "Suppose I refuse to destroy them."

With a swift movement, Rosilyn jerked back the downquilt of the bed, exposing the little syringe to view.

"You tried to hide it, but you could not. If you refuse to destroy those letters—and mind you, I am only thinking of my husband's happiness—I shall ring the bell and ask the maids to tell him to come here and bring my mother-in-law—and I will show them that syringe and tell them you have the cocaine or morphia habit."

"Hoighly-toighly!" With an effort at pretending to be amused, Lydia crossed her head. "Rather high-handed, aren't we? But since you insist, I will burn those idiotic letters."

She flung the heap into the empty grate and applied the lighted candle. The documents curled up with the sudden heat and then flashed into flame.

Rosilyn could see fond words, endearing names—they seemed to burn themselves into her very soul!

When the last letter crumpled into ashes, Lydia turned to her and with the quick change of mood that is significant of the drugtaker, cried out: "I've been a beast, and I'm awfully sorry! I'll admit that I have taken cocaine just to forget my troubles! I only began it when I couldn't sleep at nights because of Landis! He—he's loved me for years—everyone knows he has—and when he went and married you, it nearly killed me!"

"That's all nonsense! If you had really loved Landis, you would have married him, and no other woman in the world could possibly have come between you and him."

"But you put me in the empty grate above love. Landis was poor, and you were too selfish and self-absorbed to sacrifice your comfort."

Lydia made a queer sound, almost like some tiny animal in pain. "I tell you I still love him."

"And does that give you the right to make him unhappy? Forgetting me altogether and my position as his wife, does it give you the right to disturb Landis's peace of mind?"

Lydia was silent for a moment. Then she said: "You call me selfish. What about Landis who is even more so? If I wouldn't marry him because he hadn't any money, what about his marrying you because you had?"

"We are not discussing that," said Rosilyn.

As though she had not heard the rebuke, Lydia continued, earnestly: "And hasn't it occurred to you, who are so secure in pride and virtue and position, that self-indulgent as I may be, Landis's happiness may lie entirely in my hands? Now the money difficulties are over, what is there but you to keep Landis and myself apart?"

"There is honor," said Rosilyn slowly. Then she added, bravely: "And strange is it may seem, I

Parent-Teachers Attack Skating On City Streets

Roller skating and wagon-coasting by children on the streets and sidewalks of Atlanta has become "a nuisance and a menace to motorists," and mayor and city council of Atlanta are asked to enforce the ordinance regulating skating, in resolutions adopted Thursday by the Atlanta Council of Parent-Teacher associations at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce.

The resolution was presented by Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, chairman of safety for the council.

It "encourages and urges" enforcement of this ordinance so that accidents be prevented and hazards removed from the path of motorists and drivers of other vehicles.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools, urged the individual parent-teacher associations to feature a health program at their February or March meetings. He said prominent physicians, dentists and professional nurses could be obtained to make informative talks on health topics at these meetings.

She loved everything about this man. Just so long as he noticed her at all, even his harsh words were better than any other man's caresses!

Tonight she had tried so hard to please him in this after-theater snack together.

She had grilled a steak herself, tired as she was after the stage performance and a subsequent dance she had given at a cabaret.

She had a bottle of wine, too, and an appetizing piece of cheese and made the coffee exactly as Rupert used to like it to be made.

He had commended nothing, eating practically in silence.

She wondered, with the anxious pain that had been her portion these many days and nights, if he were suspicious of Steve Van Vorst, who demanding nothing beyond her agreed attempts to fascinate Landis Ridgeway and cut Lydia Harbrook out—was paying the rent of the apartment.

If Briscoe heard about the agreement, he would be disgusted with her. (Murieta was disgusted with her, she was paying the rent of the apartment.)

"Loading on the job," too, her better instinct upmost. After all, Mr. Ridgeway didn't seem to be so fascinated with the Harbrook woman, but was down in the country somewhere with his wife. Rumor had it that the wife was a simple kindly sort of girl, quite young—and Murieta somehow sympathized with her. Whichever way you looked at it, the agreement between herself and Steve Van Vorst had been degrading. With a sense of shame she realized the fact.

On the other hand, it was quite on the cards that Briscoe—if he heard of Van Vorst's payments—would jump to different but natural conclusions. And without a word of explanation, he would throw Murieta over.

LEGION CAMPAIGN TO CLOSE TODAY

With all teams putting forth their best efforts in a final drive to reach the goal of 2,000 members for Argentine Post of the American Legion, the four-day whirlwind campaign which was launched Tuesday morning will be brought to a close today at the regular weekly post luncheon at the Henry Grady hotel.

Legionnaires will meet promptly at 12:30 o'clock and final reports will be turned in. Four grand prizes—handsome solid gold Legion insignia—will be awarded at the luncheon. These will go to the colonel who first completed organization of his campaign, to the major whose battalion received the largest number of members, to the captain whose company obtained the largest number of members, and to the individual worker obtaining the largest number.

Captain James Morrison's team had taken the lead late Thursday night, according to reports available through post headquarters. The largest number obtained by a single individual was credited to Dr. H. C. Hardegree, who had obtained 27 new members within the first three days of the drive.

More than 100 new members were reported for Thursday's efforts. A special program has been arranged for today's luncheon. Mayor Walter Sims will be speaker and Fred Leister will act as toastmaster.

TITIAN HAIR IS INHERITANCE OF ENTIRE FAMILY

League's Fashion Show And Dinner-Dance Proves Most Enjoyable Event

BY BEVERLY BURGESS.

I wonder if there is a more thoroughly popular and admired girl in Atlanta than the one whom we lovingly call Red Hunter?

She of the auburn hair and also the one with great fame as an especially clever equestrienne!

Not only is her chic appearance in riding togs one of delight, but equally as beautiful is this charming girl in either street clothes or dull evening habiliments.

What a delight this Hunter family would have been to Titian, for this wonderful bronze-gold hair runs through the entire membership.

Not long ago a friend had occasion to call over the phone to speak to this young girl.

The phone was answered by Mrs. Hunter. She was asked, "Mrs. Hunter, may I speak with Red?"

There was a moment's hesitation and then came back over the wire, "Which one? We have four Red Hunters in this family!"

The fashion show, shorter in front than in back. Sport models, knee length and in pastel shades, and a wonderful display of furs were among the other attractions shown.

Many lovely visitors were present. Two challenging special admirations were Miss Hardcastle, of Nashville, the much-feted guest of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Calhoun at their home on Pace's Ferry road, and the other was the charming young wife of one of Atlanta's old boys, Mrs. Jack Cohen, of New York city.

Many of Atlanta's very own graced the occasion also! Some of her charming girls present were Harriet Shedden, Jeanette Bailey, Virginia Campbell, Valeria Manley, Ida Sadler, Rebekah Ashcraft, Grace Goldsmith, Sarah Schaefer, Margaret Elder, Isabel Johnston and Louise Stubbs.

However, not all of the beauty in Atlanta society is by any means confined to the unmarried contingent and many charming matrons were also present, wearing frocks rivaling the ones on the attractive models.

Atlanta's women—both married and unmarried—have a reputation for their exquisite costuming and impeccable grooming which extends all over this western country of ours, north, east, south or west!

Any girl present Thursday night would have graced the $1,000 bridal robe of filmy white satin and rhinestones and certainly either maid or matron could have worn with distinction the $500.00 sable coat worn by one of the matrons.

Undoubtedly the show was a great success. However, as far as the Junior League's fashion show is concerned, this was only a small skirmish to them.

Any one who has ever really seen this body in action must fully realize this to be the truth, verily!

In the immediate future the whole machinery of the league will get under full swing for the real annual "Practical Jokes Again."

Trust college boys for practical jokes! Not long since, a choice lot of Atlanta belles and beauties were interviewed for their opinion on some current issue which was interesting the public at large, and these opinions

Seniors To Give Fashion Show At Agnes Scott

The seniors at Agnes Scott college are putting on a fashion show this Saturday night, February 6, at 8:15 o'clock with the help of J. P. Allen company, which is furnishing the costumes and decorating the stage.

The models were elected by the students from girls of every class in school. There are many Atlanta girls who were chosen to be models: Ruth McMillan, Edith Coleman, Betty Little, Mary Prim are to take part with several girls who have visited in Atlanta: Catherine Mitchell from La Grange, Grace Boone from Newnan, Gertrude Green from Bradenton, Fla., Julia Eva and Emily Cone from Savannah, Helena Hays and their special ada and Eloise Harris from Birmingham.

Many other girls also are to take part, they of the girls who were chosen as queen, but her name will not be known until Saturday night. The public is cordially invited to be present. The general admission is twenty-five cents. The show will begin promptly at 8:15 and will not last over an hour.

Practical Jokes Again. Trust college boys for practical jokes! Not long since, a choice lot of Atlanta belles and beauties were interviewed for their opinion on some current issue which was interesting the public at large, and these opinions were given—gratis—to the world through the daily press! A group of college men, knowing early and late, have been busied themselves immediately!

Getting on their chapter house phones and making several interested boys—friends of these girls. The group at the chapter house posed as representatives of the press. "You saw what Miss Hank had to say in regard to—such and such a matter?"

Yes? I should like to ask what you think of this—matter? Probably piqued by his best girl's view as stated to the world, he opens and elucidates a few details for the benefit of the newspaper correspondent at the other end of the wire!

He is thanked with dignity and appreciation and arrives at the chapter house next morning only to be faced with an account of the whole procedure on the bulletin of the fraternity house and for the pleasure and edification of all the brothers, no names being spared!

A Lost Lip-Stick. Last Sunday while a group of Atlanta girls were registered at one of Atlanta's very nice hotels for the weekend festivities, one of the said girls found herself in an untoward circumstance.

On opening her eyes to a very much-labeled Sabbath morning breakfast, she found in her rush to keep an early (?) breakfast date, that she had lost that very important detail of the modern girl's toilet—her lip-stick!

What should she do? An early morning toilet certainly needed more assistance than any other!

"Call the office and ask the clerk to send to the nearest pharmacy and have several sent over to select from!" was suggested by her roommate.

This she did—or at least—tried to do! The clerk was most obliging. He would send them right up. In a moment the phone rang. The clerk, "Sorry to disappoint you, Miss, but the drug stores are all closed for church!"

The Atlanta girl kept her date for once with her lips their natural hue, which was as it should have been, but what would have happened had it really been a snake bite that had to be treated!

Gideonites at Work. At this same hotel we were glad to see the foot of those industrious Gideonite workers—the Gideonites!

There on the table was a lovely Bible, nicely bound, large type and in splendid condition. No soiled or marked pages, could we detect.

On the lintel of the door we observed something, which at first we did not recognize. It was a small, something was dangling almost to the floor.

This was worth investigating! On going to the door-frame we found the object attracting our attention was nothing less than a cork screw, chained to the door!

The Bible and the cork screw! But, of course, the explanation is—not that there is more demand for one piece of interior decoration than the other, but that Christians are so absolutely to be trusted!

Contributions to the Hope Chest. Mrs. Paul Johnson, one of Atlanta's young mothers of grown daughters, has something interesting to relate in the way of a recent experience.

In her house-keeping rounds she noticed her lovely, new, large pillows seemed in a decline!

Every day and in every way they seemed losing weight! "How unaccountably strange!"

The maid, also, began to see that the pillow cases no longer fitted the pillows, and went to Mrs. Johnson to speak of the strangeness of it!

Expert Needlewoman. All of a sudden, Mrs. Johnson was attracted by some very dainty needle-work in the agile fingers of her lovely sub-teenage daughter, Lullita.

How engrossed was Lullita in her work, which consumed every spare moment!

"Lullita, what are you making?" asked the mother rather suspiciously. "Dream pillows!" answered the sweet Lullita sweetly, holding up for inspection her work.

"Lovely! And where are you getting the inside pillows?" was the mother's question, growing more and more suspicious every minute.

"I'm making them out of pink and blue satin!" was the innocent daughter's reply.

"And the feathers?" led the mother on.

"Why, out of your very LARGE pillows! Haven't you always thought them TOO LARGE?"

Such frankness could not be dealt with as K deserved!

And so the contribution of pink and blue satin "dream pillows" to the hope chest met with no rebuke from this adoring mother!

AGRICULTURISTS END MEET TODAY

Reports of committees and election of officers will feature the closing session of the annual convention of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers at the Biltmore hotel this morning. The convention has been in progress Wednesday and Thursday, each morning being devoted to general meetings, while the afternoons have been turned over to the group meetings of the seven specialized sections of the organization.

Speakers at today's session, which convenes at 9 o'clock, will include Dr. W. Watkins, of Clemson College, S. C., who will present a survey of the present cotton situation, and W. A. Burnett, of the Union Stock yards of Nashville, Tenn., who will discuss a survey of the swine situation in the south from the packers and stockyard viewpoint.

Clarence Ousley, of Fort Worth, Texas, is presiding at all general sessions of the convention.

All of the various sections held group meetings Thursday afternoon, devoting their time to the hearing of papers on technical subjects and round-table discussions.

At the general meeting Thursday morning, Dr. H. A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee, delivered the feature address on the influence of commerce and manufacturing on the development of agricultural regions. In this respect Dr. Morgan declared the delay of the government in deciding upon some plan for operation of the great hydro-electric power development at Muscle Shoals is causing a tremendous loss.

Wilson is sentenced to Chaingang term.

Garvin Wilson, white youth, charged with having aided Fred Copeland and John Thraikill in escaping from the Madison county chaingang recently, Thursday was found guilty by a jury in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court. He was sentenced to serve from one to four years on the chaingang.

The defendant was jointly indicted on December 4 with Fred Smith, Will Johnson and Lucy Smith, alias Lucy Johnson, on two charges. One set out that he aided John Thraikill in escaping from the Madison county chaingang, and the second alleged he aided Fred Copeland in escaping from the chaingang.

He went on trial late Wednesday afternoon in the second criminal division of the court.

Wilson is alleged to have been an occupant of the car which transported the escaped convicts to Atlanta. Shortly after the party arrived in this city, they went to the home of Roger Gilbert, then at liberty under heavy bond following his conviction on charges of manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Leonard Lankford. Gilbert received sentence of one to three years.

In attempting to arrest the occupants of the automobile, Patrolman Eugene Head was seriously wounded by shots alleged to have been fired by Copeland, who is still at large. Copeland is also said to have been wounded during the pistol battle.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Sullivan Seizes Fort William and Mary.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

JOHN SULLIVAN WAS THE CAPTAIN OF A COMPANY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE MINUTEMEN WHO WERE TRAINING AT DURHAM TO BEAR ARMS IN DEFENSE OF THE COLONIES.

IN DECEMBER, 1774, A COURIER BROUGHT WORD THAT TWO BRITISH REGIMENTS WERE ON THE WAY TO PORTSMOUTH TO OCCUPY FORT WILLIAM AND MARY IN THE HARBOR.

SULLIVAN DETERMINED AT ONCE TO TAKE THE FORT AND SEIZE THE POWDER STORED THERE.

BEFORE THE COMING OF THE REINFORCEMENTS. THAT NIGHT HE SET OUT IN A SMALL SAILBOAT WITH A HANDFUL OF PATRIOTS.

ADVANCING STEALTHILY, THE LITTLE BAND OF MINUTE MEN SURPRISED THE ASTONISHED GARRISON WHO SURRENDERED WITHOUT RESISTANCE.

SEARCHING THE FORT THE PROVINCIALS FOUND 100 KEBS OF POWDER AND A QUANTITY OF MUSKETS.

THE MUNITIONS CAPTURED AT FORT WILLIAM AND MARY WERE TAKEN TO DURHAM AND HIDDEN IN THE CHURCH. LATER THEY WERE SENT TO THE ARMY OF WASHINGTON.

SULLIVAN AFTERWARDS BECAME A MAJOR-GENERAL. TOMORROW—CONCORD AND LEXINGTON.

BIG BUILDING GAIN MADE BY ATLANTA

Contracts for building in Atlanta awarded during January amounted to $2,906,000, an increase of 23 per cent over the corresponding month last year, according to Truman S. Morgan, of New York, president of the F. W. Dodge corporation, who, with Mrs. Dodge, is spending a few days at the Atlanta Biltmore, after a survey of the south Atlantic and gulf states.

The entire south is likely to profit from publicity given to Florida. Mr. Morgan stated, commenting on his trip. He expressed the opinion the tide has turned northward, and that Georgia, with matchless resources, will be the next center from which great industrial activity will radiate.

Florida Roads Aid.

"There is no doubt," Mr. Morgan said, "but that the improved road program of Florida has contributed much to the amazing developments there in the past three years and if Georgia grasps the opportunity within her reach and launches a similar program of highway construction, nothing can deter an era of unprecedented prosperity."

According to figures assembled by this corporation, the volume of contracts awarded in Georgia during January was $7,544,700, an increase of 3 per cent over December, and an increase of 90 per cent over January of last year.

Atlanta's building total for 1925 was $10,412,200, exceeding that of 1924 total by about $500,000. These figures, it was explained, covered only construction within the city's corporate limits.

Georgia Construction.

Of the construction started in Georgia during the year $23,617,000, or 31 per cent, was for residential buildings; $17,467,000, or 23 per cent, for commercial buildings; $16,246,900, or 21 per cent, for public works and utilities; $5,655,000, or 7 per cent, for industrial buildings; and $4,276,500, or 6 per cent, for educational buildings.

Southeastern offices of the Dodge corporation were located in Atlanta about three years ago. Rapid growth of business necessitated a move from their original quarters on Ivy street to the present location on Ivy street building, Peachtree street. In these three years, Mr. Morgan stated, Atlanta has forged to the front until now she holds sixth place in importance among the issuing offices of the corporation.

GRADY UNIT PROBE WILL BEGIN TONIGHT

Hearing on a petition to divorce the Atlanta Graduate School of Physicians and Surgeons from the white division of Grady hospital will be resumed tonight at a meeting of the hospital and charities committee of council. The session will be held at the nurses' home of the institution.

Charges of a despotism, alleged to be under the regime of Dr. Frank Eskridge, Dr. Garnett Quillian, Dr. T. C. Davidson and Dr. H. R. Donaldson, as members of the executive committee, were hurled during the committee meeting Tuesday night.

Dr. Quillian, as spokesman for those accused, declined to issue any formal statement Thursday, declaring he could not do so until he made it in open meeting tonight. He said a complete answer to every allegation of the petition has been drafted.

Members of the council committee, who are asked to divorce the hospital from the graduate school, are: Frank Reynolds, chairman; J. L. McLendon, C. L. Ashley, Horace Russell and A. J. Orme.

200 SLOT WAR CASES SET FOR FEBRUARY 16

Approximately 200 Atlanta storekeepers, indicted on charges of conducting lotteries in connection with the operation of "nickel-in-slot" machines, will face trial February 16 and 17, it was announced Thursday by L. P. Jones, chief clerk of Solicitor General John A. Boykin's office.

Eight of the alleged managers of two slot machine syndicates have been convicted in the court and received heavy fines. The cases will be taken up in alphabetical order, Mr. Jones stated.

ADVICE ON BONDS ASKED BY COUNCIL

City council Thursday afternoon unanimously voted to send B. Graham West, city comptroller, to Boston to confer with leading bond attorneys to ascertain whether the city can legally issue $8,000,000 in bonds without raising the tax assessments or increasing the tax rate. Mr. West will leave for Boston Saturday.

It was announced that Mr. West would attempt to have legal advisers of large bonding firms draw a bill which they would approve and which they would recommend that their concerns handle. This is necessary because the large eastern bond houses are markets for Atlanta bonds and the ordinance authorizing the bonds must meet their demands.

Dr. R. M. Eubanks, chairman of the city board of education, Thursday afternoon issued a statement in which he declared that $5,000,000 is needed for schools to provide a comfortable seat for each child in the city schools and that five years from now $8,000,000 will be needed. This statement was made just a few hours before council met to consider the proposal to send Mr. West to Boston.

Mr. West's proposal, which is known as the West plan, is to authorize an $8,000,000 bond issue, but to sell the bonds only as they are needed to carry out city improvements which they are intended to finance and to defer providing a sinking fund for about two years. If this is possible, the city could legally issue the $8,000,000 without any change in taxes, it is claimed.

A tentative allocation of the $8,000,000 proposed in the bond issue is $3,500,000 for schools; $2,500,000 for sewers and water mains; $1,000,000 for a new city hall and $1,000,000 as the city's share for the "twin viaducts."

Jerome Jones, editor of The Journal of Labor stated that today's issue carries an editorial calling for $5,000,000 to provide for schools.

As approved, the measure carries (during the next fiscal year. Of this $126,500,000 for the various activities amount $80,000,000 is for federal aid ties of the agriculture department to the states in road construction.

CONFESION CLAIMED IN YOUNG KILLING

Quitman, Ga., February 4.—(Special)—The Quitman Free Press in its edition to be issued tomorrow, it is stated here, will print an alleged confession of Willie Sharp, one of the six negro suspects in connection with the killing of S. Morton Young on January 3, who was found in his country home near Quitman, a roll of money, a rifle, and a being missing. Sharp, who was one of the negroes ordered held by the coroner's jury, in his alleged confession, is believed to have been sworn to, identifies Pete Jackson, another one of the group in jail, as the killer.

Until the alleged confession of Sharp, there has been sensational interest manifested in the mystery death and many theories have been advanced. Mr. Young was at his country home alone, as his wife was ill at the home of her mother, Quitman. He left Quitman late on Saturday night with money with him to pay off his hands. He was found lying face down in the yard, the body and the direction of the bullet and the absence of powder burns clearly indicated that it was neither suicide nor accident.

The alleged confession was secured by Sheriff Clanton, who has been spending the majority of the night since the killing concealed in the yard, where the negroes were held. Every thing is quiet, and there will be no violence. It is possible a special term of court will be convened to try Jackson.

Adams "Y"

Nashville, Tenn., February 4.—(Special)—Playing their usual form of basketball, the Jewish Progressive Club of Atlanta defeated the Y. M. H. A. here tonight after a hard struggle, 25 to 18. Not until the last few minutes of play was the contest decided, with the teams playing air-tight basketball the score was tied repeatedly by long shots from all angles. The winning markers came when the J. P. C. boys started a fierce attack in the last five minutes of the game, resulting in victory.

FARMER-TARIFF BREACH WIDENS

Washington, February 4.—(AP)—The dispute between the federal tariff commission and the directors of the national board of farm organizations continued to brew today, with the making public of letters from the opposing groups bearing mainly on the commission's procedure in the butter tariff case.

Chairman Marvin, writing to John D. Miller, president of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation, declared there was no improperity involved in the commission receiving a representative of the Danish legation after public hearings in the butter case.

Mr. Miller, replying, repeated accusations of delay and of improper conduct by the commission which were expressed in a resolution adopted yesterday by the farm organization directors. He also asserted members of congress had pledged support to a move to abolish the tariff commission.

Judge W. D. Ellis signed an order Thursday granting charters to two patriotic and fraternal organizations to be known as the Supreme Kingdom and the Pioneers.

The Supreme Kingdom petition was signed by Edward Young Clarke, William J. Mahoney, of Atlanta; Martha Yoh Marrow, of Indianapolis; John F. Hardine, L. H. Zerline, of Miami; E. Scott, of Atlanta; Harry R. Hardie, of Anderson, Ind.; Roscoe Carpenter, of Indianapolis; and Walter Heard of Jacksonville.

They asked to be incorporated for a period of 100 years. The Supreme Kingdom is to be a patriotic, fraternal and educational organization, with the privilege of establishing chapters in all states in the union and in foreign countries.

The petitioners for the Pioneers were the same as those for the Supreme Kingdom, with the names of Roscoe Carpenter and Walter Heard omitted.

They asked for the privilege of establishing chapters in all states in the union and in foreign countries.

Veteran Engineer Who Drew Many Presidents, Dies

East Point, Ga., February 4.—(Special.)—Lee L. Wells, 56, one of the best-known citizens of East Point, died at his home, 112 Ware street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, after an illness of several months.

He was born and reared in Clayton county, and was a member of one of the pioneer families of that county. He entered the railroad service when a young man, and for the past 35 years has been an engineer, and operated some of the finest trains on the Atlanta and West Point railroad.

During his service as an engineer, he pulled the special trains of three presidents of the United States, Grover Cleveland, William H. Taft and Woodrow Wilson.

After coming to East Point he has been in active service in the church, orders and civic affairs. He was a member of the First Baptist church and a number of fraternal orders.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Virginia Wells, and his widow and one son, L. R. Wells; two daughters, Mrs. J. M. Lee, of Fayetteville, and Mrs. C. W. Almond, of Hapeville.

The funeral service will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church. Rev. J. A. Crumley will officiate. Interment will be in College Park cemetery, with A. C. Hemperley, funeral director, in charge.

His body will lie in state two hours before time for the funeral.

LOCAL CHURCHES VOTED REDUCTION IN PAVING COSTS

Overriding the ruling of Alderman Claude Buchanan, mayor pro tem, by a vote of 19 to 11, city council Thursday appealed from the decision of the chair and voted to associate the churches of the city only 25 per cent of the paving assessments.

This was done in a roll call vote, and Alderman J. Allen Couch, pro tempore, presiding, called for a vote on the chair while the ballot was taken.

The proposal to reduce the amount churches are to pay for paving was introduced by Councilman Leo Sutherland, of the eleventh ward, chairman of the tax committee of council. Alderman Buchanan ruled the paper illegal and an appeal from his decision resulted.

The paper was passed on the first reading, but the second reading was deferred for two weeks.

HOME FOR SERVICE MEN IN ATLANTA URGED BY COUNCIL

City council Thursday passed a resolution asking the federal government to establish a national soldiers and sailors' home in Atlanta.

The home has received the endorsement of the national Spanish war veterans' body. There is no national soldiers' home in the entire south, and the military service of Atlanta is conducive to good health, the resolution states.

PLAYGROUND SPACE FOR TENTH WARD IS URGED BY FORD

Alderman C. M. Ford, of the tenth ward, Thursday secured councilman endorsement of his request to the parks committee, of which Councilman John A. White is chairman, to give serious consideration to utilizing for playground purposes city-owned property adjacent to Lakewood park.

Mr. Ford stated that there is an urgent need of additional play space for children in his ward.

FIVE ARE KILLED IN AUTO CRASHES

Five persons suffered injuries in three automobile accidents Thursday, resulting in arrests of one alleged drunken driver and three men charged with reckless driving. None was seriously hurt.

H. Blake, 37, of East Point, Ga., was charged with driving in an intoxicated condition after his automobile collided with a street car, operated by Motorman J. C. Hathcock, at Stewart and University avenues. The trolley car was put out of commission by the impact.

Blake was arrested by Call officers G. E. Williams and J. H. Frankland.

When trucks crashed in a collision at Bellwood avenue and Ashby street, M. W. Castleberry, 38, of 890 Woodstock street, and C. B. Dykes, 33, of 240 Courtland street, were hurt and received treatment at Grady hospital.

Castleberry was operating a city construction department truck on the north side of Bellwood avenue, while Dykes drove a bakery truck in the opposite direction. Investigating the accident Patrolman J. L. Pope preferred reckless driving charges against the men who were slightly bruised.

Driving north on Butler street, the car of Bill Jones, 45, of 173 Decatur street, struck the auto operated by A. L. Stovall, negro, of 330 Haynes street, east on Auburn avenue. Both were cut and bruised slightly. Call Officer M. C. Williams and J. S. Sibley preferred reckless driving charges against Stovall.

Rates For Icing Peaches Differ, Hearing Reveals

Macon, Ga., February 4.—(AP)—The Georgia peach growers pay $50 a carload of refrigeration charges on a carload of peaches destined to any point in the state of Arkansas, but Arkansas orchardists can ship to Georgia points for only $35 per carload.

Other figures selected at random from the table, with the higher price always the one the Georgia grower pays, are: Colorado, $100 and $80; Illinois $80 and $70; Ohio $80 and $70; Ohio $75 to $80 and $65 flat; Texas $85 flat and $65 to $80; West Virginia $80 and $70.

This will be seen, Mr. Briggs explained, that a Colorado peach grower can ship a carload to Macon or Atlanta and pay refrigeration charges of only $80, where the Georgia grower must pay $100 for the same carload.

On a minimum carload the difference is more than 4 cents per crate.

In another table it is shown that the Georgia grower pays $7.50 refrigeration charges from Macon to New York city, a haul of 928 miles, while the charge on a carload of tomatoes from Jacksonville, Texas, to New York, a haul of 1,645 miles, is only $90, and from Crystal Springs, Miss., a haul of 1,490 miles, $80.

The tomatoes move in June and July, the same months in which the Georgia peach crop moves.

Mr. Briggs said that the inside temperature of a standard size freight car loaded large before the examiner. It developed that no standard has ever been fixed by the commerce commission or any other recognized authority.

In connection with the Georgia peach shipments it was shown that this state markets more than one-third of all the peaches in the United States. In 1924 the carload shipments from Georgia totaled 13,464, compared to 29,078 for the United States. California comes second with 8,842; New York state 3,416; Arkansas 2,872; North Carolina 1,657.

CITY CODE COPIES TO BE DELIVERED TO OFFICIALS SOON

Copies of the city code of Atlanta will be delivered shortly to city officials, including the mayor, members of council and department heads, as the result of a resolution passed Thursday.

Alderman C. M. Ford, of the tenth ward, and Alderman O. H. Williamson, of the ninth, introduced the paper.

Uninsured Persons Aided by Insurance, Says High Official

Life insurance benefits the insured and uninsured alike in respect to investment of its funds, according to Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance company, in the 31st annual statement just made public.

The company, the statement points out, has nearly $1,150,000,000 invested "so it is working for the general public every day in the year," and it adds: "In 1925 the company's investments amounted to over $151,000,000. This was divided as follows: Real estate mortgages, over $30,000,000; railroad bonds, over $21,000,000, and public utility bonds, over $35,000,000."

"These investments," the statement avers, "are the property of the policyholders. Thus they are working every moment for the promotion of human efficiency and comfort. Here life insurance benefits the insured and the uninsured alike. It is not a commodity; it is a scientific service."

Hope Abandoned For Rescue of Fire Trapped Miners

Pittsburg, February 4.—(AP)—The south entry of Horning mine number 4 of the Pittsburg Terminal Coal company, in which 16 men were entombed by an explosion yesterday, remained sealed tonight in an effort to extinguish a fire which prevents all attempts to reach the men.

Mine and rescue officials planned to keep the mine sealed for at least 24 hours, after which an entry will be cut, and should the fire prove under control, further efforts to rescue the men will be made on the remote possibility that some may still be alive.

The general opinion, however, is that the entrapped men have met the fate of three of their fellow workmen whose bodies have been taken out. The faint hope that all have not perished is based on the fact that several of them were mine experts.

Howard M. Ernst, general manager of the Pittsburg Terminal Coal company and one of the men unaccounted for, was recognized as a safety expert and old-time miners point out that Ernst and others of the entombed men might have succeeded in bracing themselves in some available space away from the smoke and gases.

Today the heat, smoke and gas caused rescue crews to work in thirty minute shifts and even then fifteen were overcome. They were brought to the surface and tonight were said to be in good condition again.
